Period for Reply -- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 14 May 2010.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

DETAILED ACTION

Acknowledgements

1. This is in response to an amendment filed on May 14th, 2010. Claims 81-83 have been added. Claims 1-83 are pending. Claims 22-37, 55 and 59-83 have been examined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 22-37, 55 and 59-83 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Levy (U.S. 20020052885), in view of Williams (U.S. 20020002541).
4. As per claims 22-37, 55 and 59-83, Levy discloses an invention that comprises of the following:
 - A. ("a first computer coupled to the network, said first computer storing a digital asset which includes both digital content and a first unique identifier associated with a first instantiation of said digital asset") – A first computer (par. 77, Fig. 1, item 104) storing digital content or asset (par. 77), being part of a P2P network (72, 17);
 - B. ("a second computer coupled to the network") -- A second computer (par. 77, Fig. 1, item 106) storing digital content or asset (par. 77), being part of a P2P network (72, 17);
 - C. ("a first software routine executing on said first computer and/or said second computer, said first software routine being adapted to coordinate transfer of said digital asset to said second computer;") – a search program running on peer computers (par. 31, 74, 77). Peer computers also run a file sharing application, managing/coordinating file transfer (par. 84-99);

- D. ("said second computer operate to transfer said digital asset in a peer to peer manner across the Internet") – Peer computers being part of a P2P network (72, 17), using the internet (par. 23);
- E. With regard to the aspect of ("wherein after said transfer, a second transfer of said digital asset can occur from either said first computer and/or said second computer, said second transfer further using a third instantiation of said digital asset and a third unique identifier") –multiple transfer or instantiation of the same can take place across a P2P network (par. 72);
- F. ("second computer is a portable electronics device, including a personal computer, a personal digital assistant, and/or a telephone") – Portable device (par. 12);
- G. ("said digital content includes an MP3 based audio file") – MP3 files (par. 65, 66, 77);
- H. ("unique identifier is based on combining information from any one or more of the following: a first id for said first computer, a second id for said second computer, an asset id for said digital asset, a customer id, a randomly generated number and/or a time of said transfer") -- Unique ID based on content (par. 34, 36);
- I. ("a catalog of available digital assets is maintained at said first computer.") – Clients maintain a database of file available for download (par. 77);
- J. ("first software routine is also configured to execute an authorization routine, said authorization routine being adapted to secure agreement from a user of said second computer to access terms associated with said digital asset") – a user interface to the client that informs the user of file transfer rights, and gives the user the opportunity to get rights that he or she desires (Par.81,83);

- K. ("setup routine being adapted to set up a transaction account with a digital asset management system separate from said first computer and said second computer, said transaction account including an identifier for a user of said second computer, identifiers for any transfers performed by said user, and billing information associated with said transfers") – The system allows the user to set up subscription accounts (43, 83).

Therefore, it is adapted to set up payment account;

- L. ("Track all transfers of digital assets from said first computer.") – Tracking of content (par. 32, 128);
- M. ("receives credits from said digital asset management system for all authorized transfers made of digital assets")—Means to account for all file transfers, and be used to properly pay or give credit to the rights holders (par. 33, 43);
- N. ("second computer polls other computers coupled to the network to determine an optimal transfer source for said digital asset") – Requesting or polling other computers (par. 007, 30, 31 117);
- O. ("content includes content for a newspaper, a book, a magazine, and/or a periodical") – Content can be MP3 files, software, documents, images, video, etc.(par. 77) -- newspaper, a book, a magazine, and/or a periodical fall under the document category;
- P. ("second instantiation of said digital asset is created in accordance with distribution rules in place at the time of said transfer, which distribution rules can be different from distribution rules in place at the time of creation of said first instantiation of said digital asset ") – checking the rights/rules to transfer or copy or download or instantiate (81);

- Q. ("second computer is integrated within a fixed personal entertainment system, including a gambling machine, a digital jukebox, and/or a passenger seat ") -- Output device containing personal digital jukeboxes such a media player, such as Windows Media Player, Real Player from Real Networks, WinAmp (par. 121);
- R. Levy did not explicitly describe an invention in which the unique ID that is associated with content or client's computer. However, Williams discloses an invention that relates generally to systems and methods for distributing online digital content. More particularly, the invention relates to a library system for distributing digital content (such as music) and to various methods for distributing digital content. According to Williams, the content is encrypted using a unique identifier that is associated with user's computer, date that the users' root file system was created, MAC address, or the like (par. 47). Therefore, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to construct a unique identifier as described in Williams to modify Levy's invention. According to Williams, the motivation to use such a unique identifier would be to prevent reverse engineering of the identifier, which could allow for unauthorized duplication of content received.

Response to Arguments

5. The United States Patent and Trademark Office has fully considered the applicant's arguments filed on May 14th, 2010, but has not found those arguments to be persuasive.
6. The claims are being examined as content distribution between two or more client devices. The content is initially stored on one device with a content ID. A user account and permission is also initiated. Each time the content is transferred/instantiated, a unique ID is embedded into the content for tracking purposes.

7. As such the prior art by Levy teaches the aspect of a registered user, par. 77, and can inform the level or type of subscription which allows sharing of the file, par. 43. Par. 32 of Levy teaches an ID is being created every time a file is transferred. A unique ID is also being created every time a file is being downloaded. A file sharing software is used to track usage of file, par. 127-128.
8. With regard to the aspect of account setup, according to Merriam Webster's online dictionary, a subscription is described as: "an arrangement for providing, receiving, or making use of something of a continuing or periodic nature on a prepayment plan: as a: a purchase by prepayment for a certain number of issues (as of a periodical)". For a subscription service, an account setup has to necessarily take place.

Conclusion

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Any new ground(s) of rejection is due to the applicant's amendment. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).
10. A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event,

Art Unit: 3621

however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
